

Turning a New Leaf

STEPHANIE WOLFE, AFCC

Certified Financial Coach and Personal Finance Expert

Stephanie is a passionate advocate for empowering women to achieve financial wellness. She spent 15 years working in the financial service sector where she realised that money isn't something we're taught in school, yet the decisions around how we make it and manage it can significantly impact our lives.

She became certified as an Accredited Financial Counsellor of Canada (AFCC) and founded Wolfe Collective Wealth, Inc. Stephanie provides holistic financial counselling focused on mindset and provides practical tools and resources to motivate positive financial growth. As a certified financial coach and personal finance educator, she is dedicated to helping her clients create a better relationship with their money and in turn, grow their confidence and their wealth. She is also the host of Collective Wealth, a weekly podcast on iTunes and Spotify that seeks to inspire real conversations about money.

Stephanie holds a BA from the University of Waterloo, a Masters Certificate in Marketing from Schulich School of Business York University, and successfully completed the Canadian Securities Course (CSC). She won the 2017 Executive Coaching Award for Women in Capital Markets and is an active committee member of Women in ETFs, an organization focused on the advancement of women in finance. She lives in Toronto with her husband and three children.
